BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Ms. Shimtah Atipa Nembaware

Trustee | Gender, Inclusion & Equity

Trustee

Africa Governance &
Civic Innovation Hub

Current Role

Manager, Complaints Handling
& Investigations

Zimbabwe Gender Commission

Ms. Shimtah Atipa Nembaware is a Trustee of the Africa Governance and Civic Innovation Hub (AGCIH), where she holds the gender, inclusion, and equity mandate on the Board. She brings to this role more than a decade of professional experience as a gender equality and human rights practitioner, with substantive expertise in institutional investigations, rights-based community programming, and the structural mechanisms of accountability.

In her principal professional capacity, Ms. Nembaware serves as Manager, Complaints Handling and Investigations at the Zimbabwe Gender Commission — a constitutional body mandated to advance gender equality and equity in Zimbabwe. In this role, she oversees processes of redress, institutional accountability, and systemic response to gender-based harms, including those emerging in digital and technology-mediated environments. Her work at the Commission positions her at the intersection of law, human rights, and institutional practice.

Within AGCIH, Ms. Nembaware provides strategic guidance on gender-responsive governance and safeguarding as the institution develops practical tools and accountability frameworks for responsible AI deployment and public-sector digital innovation. She ensures that AGCIH's governance instruments are attentive to the differential impacts of AI on women, marginalised communities, and vulnerable populations — and that inclusion is embedded as a structural principle, not an afterthought.

Her appointment signals AGCIH's understanding that responsible AI governance is inseparable from gender justice — and that institutional credibility in this field demands board-level expertise in human rights, safeguarding, and equitable design.
